TOM THOMAS ARRESTED

Came to Town to Make Gano
Warder's Bond
Friday.

SHERIFF AT THE TRAIN.

Executed Bond Saturday
With Seventeen
Signers.

Tom Thomas, a prominent young farmer who lives on the Stites place near the city and also operates a farm below Gracely, came into town Friday evening from Gracely to make the bond of Gano Warden and was himself arrested as a right rider. He gave a temporary bond with Howard Brame as surety and returned to Gracely Saturday to secure permanent bondsmen. He returned at four p. m. and after waiting examination gave bond to answer to the action of the next grand jury, which meets September 28. His bond was fixed at $1,500. Judge Frowse accepted A. T. Vinson as a sufficient surety on the bond, but Mr. Thomas was accompanied by a large number of his friends who asked to be allowed to sign the bond and the following attached their names: J. R. Gaines, W. T. Wadlington, E. J. Wall, J. S. Gaines, M. A. Wright, A. W. Jones, A. Thomas, W. M. Thomas, Leon Golliday, Herbert Golliday, W. M. Johnson (of Hopkinsville), J. W. Froman, J. F. Giles, W. J. Hopson, C. S. Coleman and George Wilson.

No intimation of the character of evidence against Mr. Thomas has been given out by Judge Frowse except that he is implicated by affidavits in the hands of the Judge, along with many others not yet arrested. No information is given out as to whether other arrests are to be made at this time. There is a rumor that Mr. Thomas is one of probably fifty men implicated by confessions of night riders who participated in raids in Christian county. The charge in the Thomas warrant is that he did unlawfully and feloniously confederate and band together with others and go forth for the purpose of destroying personal property. Mr. Thomas expressed great surprise when arrested and asserts his innocence of the charge.

A little daughter of Jake Walker, aged eighteen months, died at the home of its parents on Brown street, Saturday about noon, of stomach trouble. Funeral services were held Sunday by Rev. J. Fraser Cocks, of Madisonville, who had exchanged pulpits with Rev. Bull, and the interment took place in Riverside cemetery.

FEW NAMES ON BALLOTS

School Election Will Go By Default In Many Districts.

ONLY 21 CANDIDATES

In the 70 Districts Where the Elections Are to Be Held.

The school election to be held next Saturday is so little understood or so devoid of interest that in only 21 of the 70 sub-districts were petitions filled for persons to be placed on the official ballots. In none of these will there be a contest, no districts having more than one candidate. In the list are two colored candidates, so far without opposition. The nominations made as follows:

Sub.	Dist.	1	A. M. Henry
"	"	2	Sim Loveless
"	"	3	Mark Boyd
"	"	4	S. H. Ruddle
"	"	5	John Southall
"	"	6	Ed Willis, col.
"	"	7	F. C. Clardy
"	"	8	E. L. Walker
"	"	9	J. H. Hight
"	"	10	J. J. Putty
"	"	11	R. J. King
"	"	12	Louis Tresh
"	"	13	W. H. Hall
"	"	14	Thos. Fletcher
"	"	15	J. E. Campbell
"	"	16	G. W. Alexander
"	"	17	B. C. Grace
"	"	18	J. H. Denton
"	"	19	Jesse Bass
"	"	20	Fred Harned
"	"	21	Rufus Wilson (colored)

Where nominations are not made, the voters can write names on the ballots and vote in that way, but the indications are that many of the 70 trustees will have to be appointed by the County Superintendent.

KENTUCKY GIRL

In the Tennesseans "Tour of Europe" Winners.

Washington, July 27.—Miss Maggie Lively, of Franklin, Ky., was one of the seventeen attractive, personally conducted girls who awakened Washington this week from its midsummer lethargy by a descent on the Ebbitt House and a general sightseeing lark. These young ladies, chaperoned by Miss Louise Lindley, of Nashville, were a fortunate group sent by the Nashville Tennessean, whose circulation they prodigiously increased on a six-weeks' pleasure trip to Europe. They sailed on Thursday after a merry, busy day in New York. Miss Lively was the only Kentuckian in the party.

PERMANENT CAMP.

In Princeton is Being Put Into Shape.

Princeton, Ky., July 25.—The Owensboro military company was visited here to-day by Maj. Bassett, of Hopkinsville, who instructed them as to plans in this section. The company which pitched tents here yesterday have not yet everything in perfect shape. Although they are encamped on high and dry land, the heavy rain late this afternoon and tonight has put the soldiers to considerable inconvenience.

No discourtesy so far as reported has been shown the officers or soldiers, although their presence is regarded as unnecessary. It is said that about 200 soldiers will be stationed here for service throughout the western section of the state.

USE OF GAS FOR POWER.

Combustion Engine More Economical Than the Steam Driven.

By far the greater portion of the power manufactured at the present time is developed from the combustion of coal, and of this the greatest part is produced from steam engines and boilers.

It is estimated that at the present time there is nearly 15,000,000 horse power developed in the United States. Of this, says the Forum, more than 10,000,000 horsepower is produced by the burning of coal, about 100,000,000 tons being consumed in the operation.

About 800,000 horsepower, it is estimated, is derived from gas engines, or, as they are better termed, internal combustion engines, and yet there is no doubt that the internal combustion engine, burning the gaseous fuel directly in the power cylinder, requires not one-half as much coal per horsepower as the steam engine.

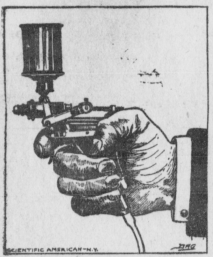

There is at the present time a rapidly growing interest in the development of the combustion engine, and it is probable that in many power plants to be erected in the near future the steam boiler and engine will be replaced by the gas producer and combustion engine. This is the more probable since the structural and operative difficulties encountered in the early attempts to make large gas engines have been practically overcome and gas engines in units as large as 5,000 horsepower are successfully built and operated.

Apart from the fact that the gas engine uses the heat twice as efficiently as the steam engine in the conversion of the latent energy of the fuel into useful work, it has also the still greater advantage of offering the possibility of utilizing fuels of low grade unsuited for use in the boiler furnace.

PAINTING WITH AIR.

Air Brushes Used in Decoration of Wall Paper and Fabrics.

There are now in use in French factories several types of air brush with which liquid pigments of all sorts, from alcoholic solutions of aniline dyes to the thickest oil paints, can be satisfactorily applied. Decorators and photographers retouchers use a very small apparatus, which works easily and perfectly in either the vertical or the horizontal position. The accessories include a compressing air pump, which is operated by the foot; a compressed air reservoir and a pressure gauge. The reservoir having been charged to the requisite pressure, the air brush is grasped with the right hand like a pencil, with the forefinger resting on the button which controls the air and efflux valves, and the hopper is filled with liquid color.

To produce the spray a current of compressed air is admitted by pressing the button. The size of the jet is regulated by drawing back the button more or less and thus opening to a corresponding extent the orifice of the nozzle. The width and intensity of the colored band produced in this manner are determined by the distance between the air brush and the work. Fine lines are traced by putting the instrument very close to the fabric or paper and drawing back the button very slightly, while broad, dense and shadings are made with the air brush at a considerable distance from the work.

Veyron's improved air brush, here-with shown, is shaped and handled like a pistol, the valves being operated by a trigger beneath the barrel. It can be used in any position.

The Musk Deer of Tibet.

Colonel General William H. Michael reports that a number of Tibetan traders who visited Calcutta in March, 1908, brought with them, among other articles, a large quantity of musk, which is held in high esteem by the high caste Indians. The little deer from which the musk is obtained ranges in the Himalayas and Tibetan mountains, 8,000 feet above sea level. The male deer yields the finest and greatest quantity of musk. The deer are shy and alert and difficult of capture.

Roof Shingles.

Shingles are usually sixteen inches long, and a bundle of them is twenty inches wide and contains twenty-four courses in the thickness at each end. A bundle of shingles will lay a course eighty feet long. When shingles are exposed four inches to the weather 1,500 will cover 107 square feet; five inches, 132 square feet; six inches, 109 square feet.

Little Danger of Earthquake.

Geologists say that New York city is as unlikely to be disturbed by an earthquake as any place on the globe. It is possible that the east end of Long Island or the sandy shore of New Jersey may some day slip into the Atlantic ocean, but the rock foundations of the city are safe.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. W. I. Bailey, living on East Greenville street, Madisonville, Ky., says: "It is four years since I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills through our papers, and my confidence in them during the time which has elapsed has not been shattered in the least, but to the contrary, I learned more about them and can recommend them even more strongly. I said at that time that Mr. Bailey had suffered with kidney complaint off and on for a number of years, and had used almost every known remedy for this trouble but nothing brought permanent results. He finally learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box. They benefited him in every way, more so than all other kidney medicines he had ever tried. He has used them many times during the past four years, and they have never failed to give him relief from these severe attacks. I have used Doan's Kidney Pills myself for a weakened condition of the kidneys and they proved just as satisfactory in my case. We both think there is no remedy like Doan's Kidney Pills.

Why We Are All Mimics.

"If we did not cough in church, the human race would not exist." And the professor, twiddling a piece of chalk in his hand, regarded the sophomores with a quizzical smile.

"What I mean," he continued, "is that the cause of coughing is the cause of our survival. That cause is mimicry. Mimicry is a better life preserver than fecklessness or strength. For by mimicry we manage not to attract attention, and in prehistoric times they who attracted attention were hunted down by the tribe and roasted for dinner or hunted down by the saber tooth tiger and taken raw.

"Since those dark days mimicry has been instinctive with us. Mimicry is what causes us to follow the fashions. It causes us, when in England, to say 'cawn't' and 'law!' If your friend yawns, you yawn—that's mimicry. If he laughs, you laugh—mimicry again. If he snuffles, you snuffle—mimicry. And if he coughs in church, straightway you and all the rest of the congregation cough, the reason being the same one which saved our forefathers from extermination."—New York Press.

Famous Floggers.

Among English schoolmasters whose names have come down to posterity with the dubious reputation of great floggers Dr. Busby of Westminster school is the generally acknowledged chief.

Of him it is recorded that one of his head boys having insulted a young French viscount who came to the school to demand satisfaction, he flogged the viscount first for the blood-thirsty intonations and next his friend who was the bearer of his challenge.

Dr. Valpy, too, who edited an edition of the classics, was a potent wielder of the rod. Archdeacon Groom, who was a pupil of his, tells a story in illustration of his prowess. One of the boys had been flogged by the redoubtable dominie, and the lad's father came to complain.

"Sir," said Valpy to him, "I flogged your son because he richly deserved it. If he again deserves it, I shall flog him again, and," rising, "if you come here, sir, interfering with my duty I shall flog you."

The parent fled.

A Famous Architect's Trick.

When Sir Christopher Wren was building the town hall of Windsor, a seditious member of the corporation, so the story goes, insisted that the roof required further support and desired the architect to add more pillars. In vain did Sir Christopher assure him that the danger was imaginary. He knew better. The alarm spread, and the great architect was worried into adding the desired columns.

Years passed, and in later times, when architect and patrons were dead, cleaning operations in the roof revealed the fact that the supposed additional supports did not touch the roof by two inches, though this was not perceptible to the gaze below.

By this ingenious expedient Dr. Wren pacified his critics, while vindicating his own architectural skill to future generations.

I'm Telling You.

Pat Murphy, who was in lodgings, was greatly annoyed by the landlady helping herself to his provisions. She began by taking a piece of his butter, and when Pat came home she said:

"Pat, I'm taking a little of your butter, but I'm not like other landladies—I'm telling you."

Next day it was an egg, and so on. Every day there was something taken and put off with the remark, "I'm not like other landladies—I'm telling you."

Of course there was never any reduction in Pat's bill. One Saturday his bill came to a larger amount than usual. He looked at it, turned up a few things in his handkerchief, walked to the door and said:

"Landlady, I'm sloping. I'm not like other lodgers—I'm telling you."—London Answers.

Beautifully Arranged.

Brown-Well, you've got the quarter. Is your sister coming down?

"I've arranged it beautifully, old chap. I told her it was you first, and she said to tell you she was out, and then I said I was feeling and that it was Charley Jones, and you ought to have seen her hustle to get into a clean shirt waist! She'll be right down!"

Not Surprised.

Skipper—I am inordinately sensitive to uncongenial surroundings, so much so that the very sight of some people will give me a nervous shudder. Chipper—Oh, well, there are very few of us that do not shrink from meeting our creditors.

No Hitch.

"How did the wedding come off to-day?"

"Without a hitch."

"Glad to hear it."

"I said without a hitch. The bride backed out at the last minute."

Not Written.

"How do you write 'horn'?" asked the teacher of a small boy at the blackboard.

"A horn isn't written at all," answered the little fellow. "It's blowed."

—Exchange.

Like a Biceps.

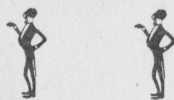

"What does the doctor say is the matter with Miranda?"

"He says she has pneumatic tendencies and that she is threatened with spiral trouble."—Baltimore American.

Late Developments.

Information has been received here that on Thursday night of last week
all plans had been made by the night riders to make a second raid on Princeton.

It is said three squads had been ordered to proceed to Princeton and burn the new passenger station of the Illinois Central, the freight depot, Kevill's factory and the courthouse. The purpose of the night riders was suspected by the authorities and hurry orders were wired to Marion for soldiers to report immediately to Princeton to protect the property threatened.

By running, the detachment succeeded in catching the train in time to reach Princeton that night. When the night riders discovered that soldiers were in the town the raid was abandoned. The Owensboro troops are now at Princeton on an indefinite stay. They are using the United States army tents, and this has given rise to the widely circulated rumor that United States regular soldiers had been stationed there.

New reports are in circulation every day. Last week it is said a no-

MAJORITY OF ONE.

Dry People Lose In Hot Lo- cal Option Fight.

Georgetown, Ky., July 25.—In the hottest local option fight ever waged in this part of Kentucky, Georgetown voted wet by one majority.

Intense excitement prevailed all day, and a large part of the population was waiting at the courthouse for returns at 6 o'clock last night.

The fight has been waged for several weeks, and the temperance people do not take this as a defeat, but from all indications there is to be a legal fight over the count.

Many street fights were stopped to-day before anyone was hurt.

Havana, July 26.—Preparations

Gov. Magroon has issued a pro-

Electoral Commission under Col. E.
H. Crowder, especially the revision of the electoral lists based on the census of 1907, during which, despite the active campaign carried on by three great political parties, absolute respect for the law everywhere was manifested. Gov. Magroon's proclamation says:

"No better evidence of self-gov-

AMERICAN WINS RACE.

London, July 25.—Dorando, the Italian runner, supported by several of the track officials was carried at the finish of the great Marathon race of twenty-five miles and declared the winner, with John F. Hayes, an American, second. A violent protest was made by thousands of spectators and finally the announcement was made that the protest was allowed. This makes John F. Hayes, of the Irish-American A. C. of New York, the winner of the great event.

Dorando collapsed 200 yards from the finish. He struggled to his feet and tried to cover the remaining distance, but was soon down again.
He could not continue. His collapse was complete and officials practically carried him to the finish.
Hayes came in second, two minutes later without any assistance whatever.

THRESHER SET ON FIRE.

Montgomery County Far- mer's Loss Caused by Un- known Enemy.

Clarksville, Tenn., July 27.—The thresher owned by Wes Smith, of the Fifth District, which was destroyed by fire Thursday night, was evidently set on fire. The thresher was on J. T. Morrison's farm. A new piece of belting was taken off the machine and laid aside by the "fire bug," but just why he desired to save that and destroy the machine is hard to understand. A thorough investigation failed to disclose any clue which might lead to the arrest of the guilty parties. Mr. Smith is a staunch member of the Association and can give no reason for such action. The loss will be about $500.

Mary and Matrimony.

By Cecilia A. Loizeaux.

Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Seitz.

"I KNOW just how you feel, Dick. I don't see how it can be helped. When I became engaged to you, I thought I would have to be a long engagement."

"It's been three years now, Mary, and I call that a long time. And you seem to have no idea of ending the wait at all. You've been forgetting to care, are you, Mary?"

Mary's lip trembled as she looked at him.

"I care as much—more—than ever," she said. "You don't understand. You see, I have been papa's housekeeper since I was fifteen, and I simply can't leave him alone."

"He is perfectly willing, Mary. Sometimes I think he is anxious for you to marry. He doesn't want to leave me in the way of your happiness."

"That's just it," cried Mary. "Dear old dad! He'd sacrifice his own interests for me any day. I won't have it."

"Mary, how old is your father?"

"Fifty."

"And healthy?"

"Perfectly. We're all proud of our health."

"He's likely to live out his three-score and ten."

"I hope so, if you mean that you wish he would die, Dick Lane."

"Easy, Mary, easy. Personally I'm very fond of your father. That's one reason why I am so anxious to get into his immediate family. But, let's see, unless some unforeseen accident occurs I shall be obliged to wait for you at least twenty-five years."

He held up a warning hand as Mary started to speak. "Don't you see that we're no nearer the goal than we were three years ago? Don't wait to find a solution of the problem, dear. Marry me now and we'll solve it together."

Mary rose impatiently.

"What's the use of talking that way? You know I can't. I've thought and thought, but there doesn't seem to be any other way out. Father flatly refuses to live with us—says it's better not—and I can't leave him. That's why I sent for you. I've made up my mind that it isn't fair to keep you waiting, so I am going to break our engagement."

She looked at him bravely, though her eyes swam with tears and her chin quivered.

Dick started a moment and then began to laugh, which under the circumstances, was the worst thing he could have done. Mary's eyes began to blaze, and the tears disappeared.

"It's a joke, is it?" she blazed. "Well, it's time it was broken. Here is your ring. I'm sorry for your wasted time, and since you are so anxious to be married, I hope you will find some one who will have you right away."

She slipped from the room, and not until she heard the door of her room slam did Dick recover from his amazement. Then he laughed again and, putting the ring in his pocket, left the house.

"Poor little Mary!" he mused. "Well, I see that I'll have to get her father to help."

Mary, watching him stride up the street whistling "Mary, Mary, Long Before the Fashions Change," sank into her big chair and wept.

"He wanted it broken! He wanted it broken!" she wailed.

Once admitted to the inner office Dick took the leather chair which Mary's father indicated with his foot, accepted a cigar and lit it.

"Is this a business call or just a visit?"

"Both. I've been up to see Mary."

"Strange. Anything doing? Will Mary marry?"

"She says she won't. In fact, she has just given me back my ring. She must, and I want you to help me."

"Of course I can't force my daughter to marry if she does not want to," grinned Mr. Arnold.

"Yes, you can—if you go about it right. You see—And he briefly outlined his talk with Mary. Mr. Arnold smoked heavily while the young man talked, and then they went over a detailed plan together.

When the young man finally left, the elder shook his head heavily.

"I'll do my best, Dick. Mary's a good daughter, but she'll make just as good a wife, and I'll divide."

rian Howard for a year, and I know how you will feel about keeping me waiting too long. Or, if not, I should not think of marrying again while you are with me."

Mary thought she must faint. The room went round and round, and then she heard a voice, which must have been her own, stifly congratulating her father, heard him say something the words of which she could not distinguish, and then she was up in her own room.

"Oh," she moaned, "what shall I do? No one wants me. Papa is going to marry again, and even he thinks I do not care for Dick. I must have acted terribly for papa to think that. And why didn't he tell me that he wanted to marry? I'd have been glad of it, for then I could have married Dick and would not have needed to worry about papa at all. Oh, it is cruel! And now it is too late. No wonder Dick stopped caring if I acted like that—like they seem to think I have." She sobbed miserably.

"I like Marian Howard. I have always wished I could have her with me. I'd like to live with them, but they don't want me either. Papa has said and again that such combinations are always unhappy, and so I must go away somewhere."

She bowed herself to sleep that night after hours of wretched reflection and almost desperate thinking. She did not go down to breakfast, but when she heard her father leave the house she went downstairs and drew all of the money which she had in the bank. She bought a ticket for New York.

At noon her father, seeing how wretched she looked at dinner, felt like a brute and came very near to spilling the whole thing. But she slipped away too quickly to give him time to commit himself, and when he was sure she was in her room he called Dick constantly up over the phone.

"I guess you'd better come over. I've made a beastly mess of the thing," he said. "Then he tied up to Mary that he had to go back to the office and told her not to sit up for him and cleared out, feeling like a coward."

This was the chance for which Mary was waiting. Hurriedly she finished packing her suit case, wrote an agonized note to her father, and, after dressing herself in the long coat and dark veil which devoted heroines all wears were in the plays she had seen, she let herself quietly out at the front door and reached the car. A young man jumped off the outgoing car, looked at her sharply and then swung up the steps of the incoming car after her, but she did not notice.

"Was this what my father had meant in his telephone message?" thought the young man. Well, he had made a mess of it.

It was raining by this time—a dreary little drizzle—and when Mary alighted at the union station she would have fallen on the slippery steps had not some one seized the suit case and caught her arm firmly. When she had regained her balance the man did not let go, but slid his grasp down to the cold, wet hand.

"Let me go. What do you mean?" she gasped, and then she knew. She began to cry.

"Mary, Mary, so contrary, come on home again," said Dick gently. "We didn't mean to go so far as this, dear, in our little plot."

"We—our plot? What do you mean? Did you and father fix all this up for a trick? And—"

"To Dick's great surprise and relief she began to laugh. He had expected tears, anger, even rage. And then he began to feel foolish."

"I guess I got just what I deserve. I was blind as a bat," she said. "When do you want me to marry you, Dick, if you can forgive me enough to want me at all? Dick, you didn't think that I had really stopped caring, did you?"

Mary's father was in the drawing room when they got home and came out into the hall to meet them. "We've been out walking," said Dick blandly.

"Yes, I see," said Mr. Arnold, ignoring the suit case and Mary's unusual apparel. "Fine night, isn't it?"

An Unthought Pardon.

Among the stories of that former governor of Texas family known as Sam Houston is more than one amusing tale.

There was a financial agent of the penitentiary who had warmly opposed the election of Governor Houston, but was particularly anxious to retain his own pleasantly lucrative position. Consequently the new governor was soon in receipt of a petition in which the man's years of faithful service and special qualifications for the place were set forth in glowing terms by himself.

The governor sent for him and said gravely, "It appears from this petition that you have been in the penitentiary eight years."

"And having," was the reply, "performed faithfully every duty that has come in your way to the best of your ability?"

"I have," answered the agent, his courage swiftly rising.

"Then, sir," said the governor, with the air of one conferring a priceless favor, "I pardon you out."

THE SECRET OUT.

To refute the many false and malicious attacks, bogus formulae and other untrue statements published concerning Dr. Pierce's World-famous Family Medicine, the Doctor has decided to publish all the ingredients entering into his "Favorite Prescription" for women and his equally popular tonic alternative known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Hereafter every bottle of these medicines leaving the great Laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., will bear upon it a full list of all the ingredients entering into the compound. Both are made entirely from pure roots, of medicinal value. The ingredients of the "Golden Medical Discovery" being Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Sassafras root, Black Cherrybark, Mandarins root and Bloodroot. The "Favorite Prescription" is prepared in a similar manner, from Blue Cohosh root, Lady's Slipper root, Unicorn root, Golden Seal root and Rattleweed root, these ingredients being macerated for a long time at a rather high temperature in a menstruum composed of chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength. The exact working formula for making these medicines can be found in the book, "Dr. Pierce's Family Medicine," which is sold by all druggists and chemists. Many years of study and experiments, but as perfected they produce almost perfect pharmacological compounds, embodying all the active medicinal principles residing in the ingredients employed, and this, too, in such form and combination as to keep unchanged in any climate. Thus the use of alcohol is entirely avoided.

PROOF POSITIVE.

Without solicitation, Mrs. H. Harrison, of 12 West 3d Street, Sioux City, Iowa, wrote us as follows:

"I suffered for more than seven years with a very complicated form of female trouble accompanied with nervous prostration, and after doctoring with six physicians all bearing excellent reputations, was informed that unless an operation was performed I would be an invalid all my life. Hearing of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. P. V. Pierce's remedies, and believing that there must be a cure for almost every ailment, I determined to make one more effort. I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and I will never forget his kindly advice, telling me to follow his instructions faithfully and not to stop at an operation. I commenced to improve after six weeks' treatment and in five months my improvement was so noticeable to friends that they began to inquire about my method of treatment. I was pleased to tell them of the wonderful means of cure that I had most gratefully found, and as so many ladies applied to me for information regarding Dr. P. V. Pierce's world-famous medicines and his plans of treatment, I felt it duty bound to give them the benefit of my experience, so I told them of the cures effected by Dr. Pierce's medicines. I have never regretted my decision, and I can confidently have believed that I had not seen the parties and known the facts."

Dr. Pierce's Good Temper is a matter of healthy activity of the bowels. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are safe, sure and speedy, and once taken do not have to be taken always. One little "Pellet" is a gentle cathartic. They never hurt the stomach. By all druggists.

Every summer you read of somebody's barn being struck by lightning, no insurance—total loss. THE FREAKISH WIND.

Pranks It Has Played With Smoke, Dust and Grain.

During a volcanic eruption in the Hawaiian Islands the smoke rose to a height of between five and six miles and then drifted away to the northeast. At a distance of 600 miles it settled on the surface of the sea and was then carried back by the northeast wind to its place of origin, where it arrived a fortnight after its original departure and covered the entire group of islands with its heavy pall.

Not long ago a steamer was on her way along the north African coast from Asia to England and had entered the Galata channel between the island of that name and the coast of Tunis when a fine dust began to darken the air and soon afterward to fall on deck. Some of this dust was collected and subjected to chemical analysis in Europe. Its constituents proved that it had been carried high in the air from the Sahara desert and had finally dropped into the Mediterranean.

More extraordinary still was a dust shower that fell in Hungary some years ago. Analysis showed that this dust was identical with the sediment of the Nile. The dust was believed to have been brought by the wind all the way from Egypt, a pretty long journey for a shower of that description to accomplish. It must have been a high wind indeed that brought a shower of wheat on one occasion to the villagers in a place on the southern coast of Spain. The wheat fell like rain. There were so many witnesses of the occurrence that it was impossible to doubt that it had appeared. But for some months it could not be accounted for.

Then came the other side of the story. It was learned that shortly before this fall of wheat some farmers near the northern coast of Morocco had been thrashing wheat with flails when suddenly a tornado swept over the ground and carried all the wheat and chaff on the thrashing cloth into the air. The cloth was swept away by the storm, and the farmers fell to the ground, but were not injured. When the storm had passed they were horrified at discovering that the result of their labors had totally disappeared. There seemed little doubt that the wheat that fell in Spain was that which belonged to the Moroccan farmers. It had been blown clear across the Mediterranean.—Pittsburg Post.

His Defense.

How sweet is the innocence of childhood!

Tommy Jones, aged seven, and his mother were invited to tea by Mrs. Brinks. While the meal was being prepared Mrs. Jones wandered about the two yard square garden and admired the weeds.

Presently the absence of her cherished Tommy alarmed her, but shortly the truant reappeared contentedly munching a huge slab of cake.

In her relief, as is usual, Mrs. Jones began to upbraid the lad.

"Thomas," she said, "I'm afraid you've been greedy and asked kind Mrs. Brinks for that cake."

"Oh, no, mother," he replied, "I wouldn't be so rude! I waited till she turned her back, then I matched a piece!"—London Mail.

Water as a Headache Cure.

"The best cure I know of for a headache is to wash your face," said a bright looking man. "Yes, I believe suddenly to cleanse your face with cold water will open up the pores and probably start the blood in circulation, and I know it will relieve you of a headache in a jiffy. I have tried it myself a great many times and have always been successful. There is something in the nature of a stimulant in the cold water treatment that braces me right up. My head when it aches gets hot and throbs, and the water makes it cool and fresh."—Philadelphia Record.

Gothland.

In the Baltic sea, forty miles from the mainland, lies the Swedish island Gothland, a Mecca for students of early Gothic architecture. In Wisby alone, the chief town of the island, with its population of 8,000 souls, may be studied what remains of no less than ten churches, some of which date from the eleventh and twelfth centuries. The oldest of them is the church of the Holy Ghost, completed about 1046.—Youth's Companion.

Conserving Resources.

"The best way to preserve preserves?" remarked a housekeeper on Cathedral heights. "Well, one of the best ways that I know, if not the best, is that pursued by a west side woman I know of, who has both an economical, to put it mildly, disposition and a married maid who has a well developed sweet tooth. She preserves her preserves by labelling 'em all 'Poison.'"—New

FARMERS IMPATIENT.

Association Approaching a Critical Period in Its Career.

Guthrie, Ky., July 25.—As predicted, sales of tobacco at the ten salesrooms of the Planters' Protective Association continue to show a falling off and the total number of hogsheads disposed of during the week ending July 18 was only 679. It is the general impression among practically all of the farmers, however, that the decrease in sales is only part of the plan of the trust to do everything in its power to embarrass the organization and no fears are felt for the result of the fight which is now on.

There is no doubt that this fight is on in earnest and that the trust is doing everything in its power to harm the interests of the grower. Officials of the Association are very frank to say that this is the state of affairs, and believe it is best to make this statement so that every farmer and every member of the organization will feel all the more keenly the necessity for a determined attitude toward the opposition. Evidently the trust has been quietly making its plans to do the Association all the harm possible at the most opportune time and this time it has probably figured out to be right now. Therefore, it is up to the members of the Association to stand shoulder to shoulder and show the stuff they are made of.

There is no doubt whatever about tracts have been filled, and they must be or somebody will have to pay handsomely for their failure to do so. Therefore, it is easy to see that the trade will all come back in a short time and when it does come it will be with a rush that will take all the tobacco on sight.

Four Against Fire Insurance Companies for Losses By Night Rider Raid.

W. T. TANDY, PLAINTIFF

One Suit Against City Light Company for Damages.

William Brown, who sues by next best friend, Julia Ann Brown, has filed suit against the City Light Company for $1,000 damages, together with bill incurred for medical attention. Plaintiff states in his petition that on June 6 he became in contact with and touched an electric light pole which was planted in the pavement near the corner of Ninth and Virginia streets and that a deadly voltage passed through his body, knocking him down, rendering him unconscious and burning his hand, arm, leg and foot. He further states that he was maimed and crippled.

Four suits aggregating $5,000 were filed Saturday by W. T. Tandy against as many insurance companies for the purpose of forcing the companies to pay the amount of policies which plaintiff alleges were in force when two warehouses belonging to him were destroyed in the night rider raid here last December. The warehouses were occupied by Tandy & Fairleigh. Following are made defendants to the suits:

The Rochester German Insurance Co., Williamsburg City Fire Insurance Co., The Glens Falls Insurance Co., and the City of New York Insurance Company.

LIGE RICKETTS IS ARRESTED

Charged With Being in the "Big Dance" on December 7th.

HAS GIVEN BOND.

Evidence Against Him Said to Be Very Strong and Positive.

Deputy Sheriff Edgar Renshaw yesterday morning arrested Lige Ricketts, who lives on a farm near the Brick church, on a warrant charging him with taking part in the Hopkinsville raid last December. He is a brother of James Ricketts, who was at that time a member of the police force. It is said that there is strong evidence against him by witnesses who recognized him in the mob.

The prisoner made bond at noon with his brother, Jas. E. Ricketts, as bondsman, who made affidavit that he was worth $3,500.

WARDER GIVES BOND
Yesterday morning Gano Warder, who was arrested on a second warrant Thursday and had been in jail since, succeeded in giving bond in two cases. When he was arrested last week one of his bondsmen on the indictment case withdrew and he was required to give two bonds aggregating $2,500. W. R. Hammond, who was on his old bond, signed the new one also and Geo. W. Barnes, of Carl, signed both bonds. Mr. Barnes was himself under bond last month on a charge of being a night rider, but the witness making the affidavit did not appear before the last grand jury and the case was not passed upon. The bondsmen swore that they were worth $4,000 and $5,000 respectively.
